FROM THE DESK OF: Robert Alexander, gem@gringoenorbita.tv, Mexico City, Mexico

I'm the author of a desktop published, WGA registered, fiction novel + matching screenplay titled ARCHÉ LEGIONNAIRE. It's a story about The Plague Master - Lane Gulus - Linus Gulus - Ling Gulls - who's been around for 2,000 years and can mass murder populations (mutilated and puss poxed blue) by just by dreaming it. Two professionals - Karl and Roy - are thrown together in their search for him. This action, horror, romantic mystery covers 3 continents, and ends with Karl and Roy in Heaven watching The Gulus tumble down the tunnel into Hell. It's a happy and meaningful ending, similar to those of the grail legend, the Arthurian tales and other Orphic themes.

The 464 page 60,000 word novel + screenplay is a fast read (with a beginning, middle and end!). The screenplay is written to accompany the matching novel under the same cover with consecutively numbered pages, for book sales to the general public.

This novel + screenplay 'bound together' presentation is not conventional in 'bestseller' book sales to the public. But again, it's precisely what I find to be visually and commercially attractive. Plus, it's a good story (my humble opinion). And, it's a movie...

I'm from San Francisco, California. I graduated from San Francisco State University and went to Stanford and Berkeley post graduate schools. I taught physics at the University of Cairo, Egypt, and at the Narro University and the University of Tlaxcala in Mexico. I have published laboratory manuals, technical instruction manuals, and legal documents for the federal government of Mexico, as well as articles for travel magazines. Arché, my second novel and first screenplay, took me a short time to write and a long time to get right.

I also have a weekly international gastronomic TV show, GEM, in its fourth year on the air. It's produced by Televisa here in Mexico, and commercialized via 1,100 cable and satellite distributors in more than 40 countries.
